2. BACKGROUND:

The J.M. Smucker Company announced a limited voluntary recall of specific lots of bulk packs of Uncrustables® sandwiches distributed exclusively through foodservice sales channels. Peanut butter used in these products is associated with the Sunland, Inc. recall due to possible Salmonella contamination and were used only in the production of certain lots of institutional 72-count bulk packs of Uncrustables sandwiches produced for and distributed exclusively through foodservice sales channels.

- The impacted product is limited to 72-count bulk packs distributed in the foodservice channel
- The peanut butter was supplied through the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Food and Nutrition Service and was produced by Sunland, Inc., which has issued an expanded national recall of some of its products due to possible contamination with salmonella.
- The Smucker Company did not manufacture the peanut butter
- The Smucker Company conducts microbiological testing on ingredients used in Uncrustables as well as finished product testing

The recall does not impact any other Smucker products including those distributed through retail channels such as grocery, convenience or warehouse club stores. Smucker produces its own peanut butter for branded peanut butters and Uncrustables distributed in retail channels.

There have been no reported illnesses associated with the consumption of this product but the company is nonetheless acting with an abundance of caution to protect consumer safety.

Please immediately examine your inventory and quarantine product subject to this recall. We request that you destroy any affected product that remains in your inventory and track product quantities using the enclosed form. In addition, if you have further distributed this product, please identify your customers and notify them at once of this product recall. Your notification to your customers may be enhanced by including a copy of this recall notification letter.

This voluntary recall is being made with the full knowledge of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.
